A life of the Rev. J. G. Wood, the naturalist has been written by his son, the Rev Theofore Wood. Wood's place as a naturalist has been happily indicated in a description of him as "an Oliver Goldsmith with knowledge."

An express package recently arrived at the German Consulate of New York for Poultney Bigelow, the author of the article on the German army in the April number of the Cosmopolitan Magazine. When opened it proved to be two large volumes, handsomely bound, one of them inscribed in the handwriting of the young Emperor. The inscription was affectionate, and · proved that a man engaged in the cares, of great empires can turn saide and recollect the friends sheps of his youth.

A colonel of the French army who had a great eye for neatness, but not much of an ear for music, took occasion one day to compliment his band-master on the appearance of his men "Their uniforms are neat" said the colonel. "and their instruments are nicely polished and kept in order, but there is one improvement that I must insist upon?" "What is it, colonel?" "You must train your men when they perform to lift their fingers all at exactly the same time and at regular intervals on their instruments, "so —one, two! one, two!"

A worthy clergyman, in a town not fur from Boston, is very absent-minded, and has a short memory. It is a common habit with him in the pulpit to forget something, and then, after sitting down, to rise up, and commence his supplementary remarks with the expression, "By the way." A few Sundays ago he got half though a prayer, when he hesitated, forgot what he was about, and sat down abruptly, without closing. In a moment or two he arose, and pointing his fore-finger at the amazed congregation, he said, "Oh by the way, Amen !"

News has been received in Calcutta of the discovery of a gold-bearing tract in Chile, portions of which have yielded 7,000 orness per ton These sistounding results, it is said, do not represent laboratory experiments on small parcels of stuff by assigned: they have been serived at in the course of practical mining or the spot. The suriferous area is of great extent and has been bought up by a powerful syndi cate, who contemplate the sale of such claims a they are unable themselves to work. The news seems too good to be true, but if it be confirmed then we are on the eve of an economic revolu-

The pursuit of "the grand sport" in India bas brought to the front a lady tiger-killer of great skill and prowess in the person of Mrs. r vans Gordon. This fearless lady, as a member of the recent Cooch Behar hunting expedition, shot an angry tigress who was rushing viciously upor the party, and was actually within a few yards of her elephant's trunk. Her shot, we are told was as well timed as it was well aimed, for the other gains sugaged, including that of the lady' husband, Major Evans Gordon, had failed 1 stop the furious brute. It is added that this orilliant achievement adds one more to he man laurels and trophies already won by this daunt less lady in the hunting grounds of Cook Behar.

A subscriber to the telephone exchange asked to be placed in communication with his medica man. Subscriber: "My wife, complains of severs pain at the back of her neck and occa sional nausea." Doctor: "She must have me laris." Subscriber: "What's best to be done ! At this moment the clerk at the central station alters the switch by mistake, and the unlack husband received the reply of a mechanical en gineer in answer to inquiries of a millowner Engineer: "I believe the inside is lined wit] exceriotions to a considerable thickness. Let her cool during the night, and in the morning Land & I before firing up, take a bammer and pound her vigorously. Then get a gerden hose with strong pressure from the main and let it play freely on the parts affected." To his great surprise the doctor never saw his client again.

A good story is told of Lord Mark Kerr, the eccentric but kindly and chivalrous soldier who ence commanded the Poons Division of the Sombay Army. Lord Mark had a strong belief sat faith in dead heroes was a good thing for the army. When commanding at Poons, he presented a copy of "Blacker's Mohratta War". to each native regiment of the garrison, and he named certain streets in cantonments after "Korygaun," "Patterson," and so on One night at Lord Mark's table a gnest, who lad evidently not studied Indian history, asked who Korygaum was, and who was Patterson. "What P" said Lord Mark in a horrified tone : "A Bombay Officer and never heard of Korygaum, and Staupton, and Patterson? Good G-d P and relapsed into indignant silence. After dinner, the unfortunate and sorely-puzzied guest was heard complaining to a friend over s cheroot in the veraudah, "Lord Mark's madder indo-Cir then ever to night. How is a fellow to know Steam about Koryganm, and Staunton, and Patterson? Trust & I Who are they?" Some of his confounded Scotch Watson &

The following extract from a letter received from a passenger ou board the stramer Manora. which left Madrason the 25th March for London is published in the Madras Mail: On Saturday bulletin that, Fieble and shrinking though denied. Amongst the passengers from Calcutta I can only judge from present appearances. If the trade recovers, it will, after all, not be more wonderful than the reaction that set in in the came and went like everyone else on board. Of Sugar Trade eighteen months ago, or in the Saturday evening after dinner, she came up on dock, and stood staring bard out at sea with chance of such a contingency lies in a mishap in queer expression on her face. Very soon after midnight the quartermaster on his round missed her from the place, and woke the husband Search was made all over the ship, but she was never found. She had evidently watched her or market with large cargoes, and let the Export portunity and thrown herself overboard. The poor husband is perfectly distracted. She was handsome.

- IN MEMORIAM.
[To Mr. D. R. One, wife went out to see on the eye ing of 26th May, 1890, and has not returned.]
He sailed away in the evening light With a fresh ning north-cast gale, And we watched his boat 'til the gloom of night Closed in on his feam-splashed sail.
And the sea-birds hover d-above the mast In the twilight cold and gray, But they shricked him a wild good-night at last In their own strange scalike way.
For the storm increased and they homeward sped To the distant rock-bound shore And left the sea to prepare a bed For a friend they would meet no more.
Bo they bore him away, each reckless wave, With a faviring wind and tide

PRONUNCIATION. Au Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong. For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objeots in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have herotofore characterized Chinese publications. To illustrate the vast scope of the work the following facts are submitted for consideration: Chalmers Vocabulary contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Medburst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst: this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese characters. Again, despite all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published, the student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various applications and equivalents of different words which have one general meaning. Of these examples . this work contains more than five times, as many as any other Dictionary hitherto pub-

For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in China, and to the nativesthemselves it explains subjects fully with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted. To parties resident in England and interested 3 & 4. Bouverie St., Fleet St. in China it cannot but be invaluable occasion-
